

NEW REGIMENT IS COMING HERE

ORDERED TO HONOLULU FROM FORCE NOW IN PHILIPPINE ISLANDS.

A special dispatch from Washington to the San Francisco Examiner, of April 4, announces that another regiment has been ordered to Honolulu from the Philippines.

The dispatch reads: "Making ready to concentrate its entire mobile force along the southern border, the war department today ordered three complete regiments now in the Philippines to hurry with all possible speed back to the United States. These regiments are in addition to the Fourteenth Cavalry, now on the sea homeward bound from the Orient."

"Two of the regiments ordered home today are cavalry and one is infantry. Upon their arrival at San Francisco the cavalry will proceed to Fort Clark and Fort McIntosh. The infantry will hasten to San Antonio. A fifth regiment now in the Philippines, was ordered to Hawaii and informed that it must arrive at that station before the first of May."

"The department of state today admitted the almost incredible fact that it is actually treating with the Mexican ambassador on the demand of Mexico that the United States shall pay duty on the arms consigned to the American ambassador at Mexico City for the protection of American citizens whom the Madero government admits it cannot protect."

Government Is Taxed.

"This puts the American government in the amazing position of being taxed for the privilege of preventing its own citizens from being murdered in a lawless country. And what is still more amazing, the state department is showing decided symptoms of capitulating to Mexico's demands."

"In response to an appeal from Governor Colquhoun of Texas that former Policeman Roberts of El Paso, who is held a prisoner by the insurgents in Mexico, be released, the state department began a feeble attempt today to unwind red tape."

"It contended that if it made a presentation to the insurgents to release him, it would thereby recognize their belligerency, which it does not intend to do. At the same time the department realizes the futility of appeal to Madero, who is unable to release his own men held prisoners by the revolutionary forces. In the meantime Roberts has been acquitted by a rebel court martial on charges of being a spy and will be released."

"Information reached the department today that indicated the insurgents are now in possession of more than half of Mexico."

Senate Wants Facts.

"Expressing extreme dissatisfaction with the manner in which the state department has permitted Japan to pull the wool over its eyes as to her intentions in Magdalena Bay, a member of the foreign relations committee said today that the object of the Lodge resolution is to take the entire problem out of the hands of the department and of the President and invest it in the senate."

"So anxious was the foreign relations committee to accomplish its object that such a resolution was contemplated until after it had been introduced and passed."

"If President Taft was not informed by the state department that on Tuesday, when the Lodge resolution was introduced, a Japanese syndicate was actively engaged in negotiating for a vast tract of land along Magdalena Bay, he will be made aware of that fact tomorrow when Senator Lodge calls at the White House."

"The sentiment entertained at the White House for the senator since the introduction of his resolution is illustrated by the fact that when Lodge called to present his information today the President could not make it convenient to see him."

HAWAIIAN YOUTH ATTEMPTS PERILOUS RESCUE OF SWIMMER

Kaia, a Hawaiian swimmer, became a hero for an attempted rescue at Honouliuli, Hawaii, April 2. The news of it reached Honolulu yesterday, although the swimmer's bravery has been discussed in many a home throughout the Honouliuli district ever since the day he attempted to save a young Spaniard from drowning.

The Spanish youth, whose name is not disclosed, made a bet that he could swim to one of the Honouliuli Sugar Company's landing buoys and return. The stake was a gallon of wine.

The sea is treacherous at Honouliuli and the waves ran high. Into the foaming surf and the perilous undertow the Spaniard forged, reaching the buoy in safety. His friends on the shore watched breathlessly. The young swimmer did not begin the return trip but clung to the buoy making signs of distress.

Kaia offered to attempt a rescue. He is a strong swimmer, but his friends urged him not to go into the water on what seemed a hopeless task. Kaia persisted and they tied a rope around his body. With it he breasted the breakers and reached the buoy. Darkness had descended. The men on shore could not make out the two swimmers clearly. They pulled in on the rope but only Kaia returned with it, exhausted.

Summons had been sent to Hilo in the mean time, for a launch. It arrived two or three hours later and effected a rescue of the Spanish lad. The launch arrived home too soon for the imperiled swimmer had nearly ceased to struggle against the buffeting waves.

DESHA REPEATS WHAT KUHIO TOLD

MUST SHOW WASHINGTON THAT PEOPLE BACK CHARGES AGAINST FREAR.

Stephen Desha continues to impress upon his political flock the fact that the convention tomorrow is to demonstrate to the administration at Washington that the Republican voters of Hawaii are back of and endorse all that Kuhio, Ashford and Kinney have said against the Governor and the sugar planters of the Islands. At a meeting of the Hilo delegates, called by David Ewaliko in Hilo Wednesday, the political parson repeated what he had been told by Kuhio in the Kuhio-Desha letter and afterwards told by word of mouth, the whole tenor of which was that now the Hawaiians must combine to back the Prince against the haole Governor and the plantations interests.

Although politics has of late made some very strange bed-fellows in Hilo, this meeting called by the labor union leader and Democratic boss, for the purpose of getting a public expression from the Republican delegates was sufficiently anomalous to create considerable comment and amusement in the Big Island town.

The meeting was a semipublic affair, and, being antiadministration in its sentiment, it was fairly enthusiastic. While John Kealoa acted as presiding officer, in his capacity of president of the Hilo labor union branch, David Ewaliko was, as usual, the power behind the throne—and not so very far behind either.

Beers, Bohnenberg, Osorio, Rose, Cabrinha and Namahoe all testified to their loyalty to Kuhio and the labor union. Then Desha exhorted.

He remarked that, at the recent primary election, he himself had probably been the main bone of contention, particularly as the "other element" had used all its influence to down him. He had, however, like a seasoned veteran, stood through their attacks, and he had, through the support of Ewaliko and the labor union, secured the coveted nomination. If only the labor element would stick together in the future, it could vanquish all its opponents, said Desha. It was doing so on the mainland.

The election of a Kuhio delegation showed that the Hawaiians had their privileges at heart, as Kuhio had told him that this was their only chance. If the victory over Frear was won, it would show to the administration at Washington that Kuhio was right in his charges against the Governor. Hereafter the Hawaiians and the Portuguese must pull together, as the election just past had shown what they could accomplish when they worked in harmony.

The speaker expressed surprise that the interests had used money so freely in the country districts, and he was sorry to see the Hawaiians in these places voting for the plantation people, although they were the very ones who had been kicking about the home-stand policy of the government. On the other hand, the Hawaiians in the city, though not themselves personally concerned with homestead matters, had shown their interest in the question by giving the victory to the Kuhio men.

Home Ruler for Kuhio.

Pacheco was called on to speak. He said that although he was a Home Ruler, he felt that it was his duty to help elect the Kuhio delegates, as Kuhio had been working in the interests of the homesteaders. Pacheco had no use for Frear or his administration, and he hoped that at the next election all the former Republican votes would be thrown to the Home Rule candidates.

Paaahao, the well known Democrat, expressed the wish that Holstein would be selected as Hawaii's delegate to Chicago, and that Osorio be chosen as his alternate. He urged the delegation to work for this end, and was greeted with loud applause.

Ewaliko closed the meeting with a short speech, in which he called attention to the reception which had been given Gompers during his recent visit to the West. The laboring men on the mainland had done much towards bettering their conditions by taking an active interest in public affairs, said Ewaliko, and those on the Islands should follow their example.

ROOSEVELT SWEEPS PENNSYLVANIA WITH OVERWHELMING DELEGATION

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—Fifty delegates out of sixty-two are unquestionably aligned for Roosevelt as a result of the Republican presidential primaries in Pennsylvania.

Late returns from scattering districts of the State point to a probability of sixty-two delegates for Roosevelt.

Republican organizations are stunned by the overwhelming landslide. A general preliminary canvass of the situation had resulted in the confident forecast of sixty delegates for Taft and sixteen for Roosevelt.

Philadelphia, which was expected to go for Taft, was strongly in line for the Colonel.

The Democratic primaries resulted in a solid delegation for Wilson.

Taft in Minority.

SEATTLE, April 14.—Taft is hopelessly in the minority in the Republican state central committee, which has split over Roosevelt and La Follette.

BURGLARS BREAK INTO THE HILO JAIL

WARDEN AND DEPUTY SHERIFF
VICTIMS OF SOFT-FOOTED AND AFTER-DARK MEN.

(Mail Special to The Advertiser.)

HILO, April 12.—Pockets in the pantaloons of high police officials have of late been found to be a fine hunting ground by burglars of this city. Within the past couple of weeks both Jailer Maby, the popular and dearly beloved caterer to the malefactors in the Hilo jail, and Deputy Sheriff Fetter have had their trousers' pockets rifled by burglars. And this happened in both cases during the early hours of the morning when the officials were enjoying the sleep of those who have a good conscience; their money-laden nether garments being at the same time conveniently suspended from chairs in the immediate vicinity.

The Maby case happened a couple of weeks ago. On the night in question the jailer had been improving his mind by reading until one o'clock in the morning, when he retired. Being a believer in the healthy, wealthy and wise principle, the jailer sprang lightly from his couch at five a. m., only to be struck by the heartrending fact that whereas his trousers had the evening before been musical with the jingle of about ten dollars in coin of the realm, they now jingled not at all, the coin having been abstracted by some bold and bad burglar while the jailer was playing with the angels of dreamland.

The case of the deputy sheriff was more spectacular. At about half-past four last Wednesday, one of the two smaller Fetter girls was awakened when her mosquito net was lifted by a person who peered into the bed. The girl awakened her sister, who slept in the same bed, and the jailer hastened out of the room. It appeared later on that he had visited Captain Fetter's bedroom and had taken from that official's trousers the sum of $7.15 in coin, whereupon he had continued his trip through the house until he awakened the girls.

The children called their father, who lost some time by searching through the house. Fetter then scurried through the neighborhood, sitting lightly in bare feet across the dewy grass, but beyond producing an artistic effect, he accomplished nothing of value.

Extravagant Filipino.

The following morning Fetter noticed a Filipino evidently preparing to celebrate some festive occasion. He was buying a piece of beef, which was in itself enough to be a ground for suspicion that he must be the possessor of predatory wealth. Furthermore, he had bought fish, shrimps, canned goods, fruit, toilet powder, soap, a red necktie, half a bag of rice, half a dozen silver-plated spoons and some other things. The extent of the Filipino's marketing aroused Fetter's suspicions, and he took the man, as well as another Filipino, who was with him to the police station. Here a list of the cost of the goods bought by the speedthrift, plus two dollars in coin which remained in his possession, tallied within a few cents with the amount missed from the deputy sheriff's pocket. Further grounds for suspicion developed in a pair of socks, so wet and dirty that they showed that the owner must have worn them, without the use of shoes, a few hours previously. The socks had still clinging to them particles of a peculiar sandy soil, just like that which is found in the Fetter yard and accordingly the fellow's arrest on a charge of burglary followed.

ROOSEVELT FIGURES.

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—The completed returns of Saturday's primaries, indicate that Roosevelt will receive sixty-four of the total of seventy-two delegates to the Republican convention. The result of the primary election leaves considerable doubt regarding the renomination of Congressman Dalsell.

HILL RETIREMENT IS AGAIN RUMORED

CHICAGO, April 13.—The Chicago Post today says that James J. Hill, the railway magnate, will retire soon and that his son, Louis Hill, will succeed to his father's position.

"The builder of the Northwest" and "The Colossus of Roads" are the names James Jerome Hill is best known by. Mr. Hill was born in Wellington county, Ontario, September 16, 1838. His father came from good old Irish stock and was one of the earliest settlers in Upper Canada, in 1826, being a hard-working and successful farmer. On his mother's side Mr. Hill is of Dunbar, Scottish descent. The boy attended the Rockwood Academy, a Quaker school, for eight years, when his father died and young Hill was thrown upon his own resources to make his way in the world.

At the age of eighteen he went to St. Paul, then a village on the hem of civilization, and became a shipping clerk. He learned the business of transportation thoroughly and he gradually learned the needs of the great West. In 1865 he took the agency of the Northwest Packet Company and continued in that position until 1867, when he started for himself in the general fuel and transportation business. The first coal used in St. Paul was shipped in by him. His first start on the road to fame was in 1870, when he established the Red River Transportation Company. He opened communication between St. Paul and Fort Garry, now Winnipeg, and in 1871 he consolidated his interests with Norman W. Kiteon of the Hudson Bay Company. In 1873 his chance came and he grasped it with great courage. The St. Paul and Pacific Railroad had defaulted. He interested Sir Donald Smith and Lord Mount Stephen, secured control of the bonds of the company and the purchase was completed.

He reorganized the road, included the Northern Pacific and the Canadian Pacific and by degrees he formed the Great Northern Railway system. He not only became a great owner of railroads, but added superb fleets of steamships on the Great Lakes and the Pacific.

PELE'S FIRES ARE RISING STEADILY

OBSERVER DODGE REPORTS LAVA LEVEL READY FOR SOME BIG DOINGS.

The fire level in Halemaumau is steadily rising and, in the opinion of F. B. Dodge, who is recording the vagaries of Madame Pele for the committee on volcanic research, is due to reach a very high level in the near future. In his regular weekly report to The Advertiser, under date of April 11, Mr. Dodge writes:

"The lava lake of Halemaumau has been rising slowly, but surely, for the last week. For that matter it has been doing so for the past three or four weeks and is now within 248 feet of the top. By the looks of things at the crater I should not be surprised to see it rise very high in the near future."

"The average for the week is 252 feet below the east rest house. The following are the daily levels: April 6, 8:30 p. m., 259 feet; April 8, 11 a. m., 257 feet; April 9, 10:30 a. m., 249 feet; April 10, 5 p. m., 249 feet; April 11, 9:30 a. m., 248 feet."

"On the eighth the smoke, which had been so bad at different points surrounding the lake, disappeared to a considerable extent giving a much better view of the lake from the north side, which until then had been entirely shut off. This decrease of smoke is one reason the lava is thought to be steadily rising."

"On the ninth there were large overflows on all sides with the lake very active. Large cones had been built up
